

Rural Kentuckians Want a Smoke-free Law!

- Nearly TWO THIRDS of people living in rural Kentucky favor smoke-free policies.
- BUT, rural Kentuckians are less likely to be covered by local smoke-free policies than people living in cities.
- Rural Kentuckians are more likely to be exposed to secondhand smoke at home and work.
- Rural Kentuckians use tobacco more heavily and start using at a younger age than those in urban areas.
- Smoke-free policies save lives by protecting people from the toxins in secondhand smoke.

“The smoking ban is a non-issue in London. We all go re-elected and new restaurants have been built. No complaints, not even from the bars.”

—Mayor Troy Rudder, London, KY
